We of the Cauldron Board have endeavored to make this yearbook a suitable companion for our classmates through all the years to come.

It is our hope that twenty years from now, the 1941 Cauldron will do a masterful job in summoning up new thoughts of old friends.

★ Our best efforts are in this book. May it bring as much pleasure to our classmates as it did to us.

After more than three decades of devoted service to Northeastern University, Dr. Carl Stephens Ell last fall was inaugurated as our second president.

This is appropriately President Ell's year. The Class of 1941, in dedicating this yearbook to him, wishes to pay sincere tribute to his outstanding record of achievement, and to affirm its confidence in the future of our University under his leadership.

Northeastern will grow with him and because of him.

There are many characteristics that distinguish the true professional man. Important among these is his desire to continue to grow in intellectual stature and in usefulness to society. College curricula frequently mark the terminal point of formal education, but they should be also the "commencement" of a life-long cultural and professional development.

Education is no static thing which can be acquired and dismissed from mind like a suit of clothes, but a process that should go on continuously as long as we live. Some of you who are being graduated from Northeastern this June will go on to advanced study in other universities, others will enter the armed forces of the nation, and many will begin work in industry.

Wherever you may go and whatever your jobs may be, it is my hope that you will show yourselves responsive to the opportunities, so numerous in our country, for further enlarging your knowledge, your skill, and your serviceability to society.

As you go forth from classroom and laboratory it is fitting that you should feel the glow of satisfaction resulting from a task well done. It is equally important that you be mindful that what you have accomplished is essentially a foundation and that yours is now the privilege and the responsibility of building upon it a happy and a fruitful life.

Nearing the termination of a period of five years of pleasant associations with the members of the senior class, I welcome this opportunity to say a word of farewell. It is my hope that you will have the courage to face all that life may bring and that you will not let ill fortune break you or good fortune spoil you. I trust that you will have the strength to believe that things seen are less essential than those unseen, that a house, a car, and a bank deposit are not as important as self-respect, achievement, and the love and respect of others. Today we need men who think carefully upon the meaning of life, upon the relationships which should exist within society and among nations, men who have stout hearts, who stand unflinchingly for freedom and who maintain at any cost the eternal significance of the individual effort. Such men I hope you will be.

I wish you prosperity in all your undertakings!

DEAN HAROLD W. MELVIN,

Dean of Students

RUDOLPH MORRIS

The lot of a class advisor is not always a carefree one, for his is the responsibility of maintaining class spirit. When enthusiasm fails, it is the adviser's job to rebuild the lagging morale.

Our class was not an exceptional one. We had frequent periods of inertia and inactivity. That we did acquit ourselves in the manner in which a good class should, we owe to Professor Morris. It was his counsel and energy which carried the day when it seemed that worthwhile class activities would be neglected.

Professor Rudolph Morris was born in Boston in 1909 . . . B.S. in B.A. from Northeastern in '32; M.Ed. from B. U. in '35 . . . now working toward Ph.D. at B. U. . . . married Betty Alden Hughes of Quincy in '38 . . . has been teaching courses in education, and handling administrative work . . . outside interests are reading puttering in second-hand book stores, and worrying about a superfluity of thirty-five pounds acquired in recent years . . . of his experience with the gentlemen of '41, the Professor says, "I particularly enjoyed watching the class mature. The group entered in an unsettled year; it is walking out into a similar situation. From all indications it will continue to keep its feet squarely upon the ground."

SENIOR DEAN'S LIST

Maturation is a sneaky process. It creeps up on its victims from behind. The world has never seen a young man who consciously set out to become mature. Considering that fact, a surprisingly large number of young men do mature.

So it was with the Class of 1941. With shining eyes (and more than a slight glow on the seat of blue-serge trousers), with the seed of ambition implanted in their hearts (and a trace of seed in the ears), these uninformed and uninitiated boys embarked upon the sea of college education some five years ago.

Lacking in sophistication they might have been, but certainly not lacking in enthusiasm. Each and every one aspired to a hundred and one ambitions, all the way from that of dating a Simmons girl to that of making the Honor Society. After the smoke of five years of trying had cleared away, some of these aspirations had been achieved, while others had proved nothing more than stumbling blocks. Most important of all, a degree of maturity had at some time set in. They had done many things and had grown up in the doing of them.

They had run dances. Dances at Country Club and Copley Plaza. They cavorted to the musical ministrations of everyone from the Siwash City Six to the Sophisticated Seventeen from the Big City. At first they ran their dances at a loss, but later an awakening class spirit brought them into the black ink.

Their dancing careers started in their Freshman year, when the Hotel Kenmore was the scene of the frolic which produced a history-making deficit. Incidentally, that dance was presided over by one Arthur Anderson, who was destined to assume the presidency of his class for three successive years.

The sophomore and middler years saw deficit dances, also. Ken Reeves and Red Nichols did the musical honors, while the Hotel Continental and the Mt. Hood Country Club provided the housing facilities.

Finally, and with great fanfare, arrived the Junior Prom. Oh, the magnificence and the splendor of it! Many a callow young fellow took earnest lessons in the gentle art of dancing, many a one spent more money on this one great evening than he ever had spent in a week of entertainment, and many a vow that "I wouldn't be found dead in soup-and-fish" was sadly broken.

What a luxurious and exciting event it turned out to be! Prosaic young men took on the gloss and sheen of sophistication. Scores of male Cinderellas went to the ball and carried away a multitude of memories with them—memories of the lovely Prom queen, the glistening chandeliers, the famous band, chicken-a-laking at midnight, and their own ordinary selves in white ties and tails. If any one picture in the panorama of a college career remains indelibly impressed upon the minds of this class, it will be the picture of the Junior Prom.

Just to prove its versatility, the class produced a goodly number of athletes. Connie Sullivan, Art Anderson, Carl Johnson, and Ducky Holmes were impressive with the pigskin. Sam Swardlick, Alex Struzziero, and Joe Beaton were just as outstanding on the diamond. Gerry Griffin wielded a skillful hockey stick, while Frank Mascianica was notably successful on the track. Tom Gleason, Bob Toucey, and Bob Gurney were some of the basketball stars.

No group ever worked under greater handicaps than did these athletes. Hockey practice before the sun came up, football practice after the sun went down, an hour on the track stolen between classes, co-op jobs carefully arranged to allow some few hours of work with the team—that is the story of athletic competition at Northeastern. Only an extreme liking for sport, or an overdose of the spirit of competition, made it possible for these men to find the time and energy to bring them out year after year. The fact that many of the teams were not winning ones makes it doubly clear that these boys were doing a good job—a good job in that it was not an easy job.

For the out-of-townners, school life very often revolved around a fraternity house. In a way, this was perhaps the most fortunate group of students. For getting away from Mama's apron strings, and for learning to live in harmony with other people, fraternity life is an invaluable experience.

Anyone who has even visited a fraternity house recognizes the advantages (and the handicaps) which it offers to its members. There is nothing anywhere to equal its easy and informal social life. No friendships are as firm as those formed within its walls, and no other living quarters offer its communistic, share-and-share-alike opportunities. On the other hand, studying turns out to be next to impossible at certain hours, and many a man suffers from over-exposure to the "house's" social life. Weighing advantages against shortcomings, and discounting the fact that many of these "brothers" were wont to arrive at 9:06 in the morning with a tattle-tale-gray collar on and more than a suspicion of five-o'clock shadow, it is indeed a rare frat man who does not know more about the art of living when he graduates than he did when he entered college.

The class did its share in running the college newspaper, too. Stanley Sandarg and Tom McAuley spent their days and nights in the News office, coming out now and then to attend a class when it was convenient. A small group of men made a career out of this paper. They concentrated all their spare working hours upon it, and just about took it to bed with them at night. As was almost certain to happen under the circumstances, the sheet made substantial progress in gaining increased recognition in intercollegiate circles.

In glancing through a yearbook, a stranger cannot fail to wonder how it is that a college can bring student support to so many different and varied minor extra-curricular activities. He wonders if the organizations pictured actually represent a genuine student interest, and where the students find time to support them. If he could know the students, he would find the answers to his questions. Clubs, professional societies, musical organizations, are not sham organizations. They represent a release for the energies of two groups of students: those enthusiasts who are interested in particular hobbies, and the all-round "activities" men of the class. These two groups run their organizations actively, and with sincere interest.

The Class of 1941 boasts of many examples of both classes of "organization" men. Enthusiasts in particular avocations they had aplenty—the Messrs. Davis and DiCara in the musical clubs, the Messrs. Jennings and Feinberg in the Camera Club, the Messrs. DaGata and Shanker in the public-speaking field, are examples. As for the "activities" men, who helped to keep many organizations thriving because these men needed many outlets for boundless energies, the class had representatives in fellows like McAuley, Nordstrom, Kelley, and DeNapoli. When the relatively small number of hours put into these minor activities is considered, then their true value is apparent.

CLASS HISTORY

Co-operative work jobs were as important a part of the class' college life as was anything else. More than half of each year was spent out in the workaday world. When all the chips are counted, and all the returns are in many years hence, perhaps these months spent at work may prove the most valuable part of the class' training..

Jobs were valuable, not so much for the professional teachings they imparted, but for the many little pointers which are so necessary in adjusting a man successfully in the vocational world. Many a young student of '41 went into the co-operative system with a hazy set of notions regarding the job-world. After four years of obtaining and renewing jobs (even after four years of just trying to find a job) his ideas were considerably altered and improved.

The young lad who went into the business world with the happy confidence that hard work and honesty are the sole requisites for success, was considerably surprised when he observed the play of petty politics all around him at his place of work, and when he observed the apparent well-being of slothful people. Certainly his co-operative work gave him an opportunity to look at such phenomena squarely, to size them up for their true insignificance, and to maintain his ideas concerning vocational excellence. And his belief in the worthwhileness of such excellence was henceforth based, not upon blissful ignorance of some of the inconsistencies of business, but upon a cheerful contempt for them where they exist.

This young lad learned other lessons from his work, too. He learned that a confident resolve to do big things is desirable, but that industry wants first of all the man who can be letter-perfect in little things. Thus he learned that big objectives evolve out of a thousand picayune tasks. He learned the value of detail, and he lost his contempt for little tasks.

The lesson that life is either real and earnest and hard-working, or else will be unremunerative from a financial point of view, was not long in coming. Nor was it long before he observed the ridiculous ease with which hard-earned money could be expended. He learned to budget, and he may even have felt the thrill that comes from having lost immediate financial worries as a result of his working and planning. Perhaps he developed the ability to take a "bawling-out" from the boss, and the ability to accept blame willingly when it was coming to him.

He learned these lessons even from silly and misfit jobs. Some of the lessons he picked up merely in the pursuit of jobs. As a result of them, he made progress in the understanding of himself and other people.

With all the activities and goings-on at its school, it is a wonder that the class did any studying at all. Of course, though, it numbered many outstanding students in its ranks. These were the men who had the clearness of vision, the natural ability, and the intestinal fortitude necessary to the maintenance of high scholastic ranking. They are the men who stayed up an hour or two after their eyes became heavy, for the sake of carrying some piece of work a bit nearer to perfection. And they are the men who worked up something more than a passive interest in studies. They are probably the men who will find least difficulty in making an adjustment to a life's work. The seniors of the Honor Societies all deserve recognition in this respect; in particular do the top-ranking men rate a word of praise—Saul Hahn, Calvin Josselyn, Laurence Uhland, Russell Kennefick, Stephen O'Neil, are some of these.

Perhaps the most important thing the gentlemen of 1941 did was to conduct a class. It finally did become a class, in every sense of the word. It would have been amusing to an outsider to observe the change which took place in a few years. From an undisciplined mob, the group turned into a coherent and active body.

At first it was all the class officers could do to see that lunches remained in brief cases during class meetings, and that other signs of orderly proceeding were followed in spirit. Many and many a time only the powerful lungs of Advisor Morris and the innate gentlemanliness of its members, kept the class in session as a functioning body. Business and functions were somehow disposed of, though functions were always run "at a deficit." It goes without saying that class dues were always in arrears.

Four years later the class had become a group with an interest in the proceedings, and a group which had grown immeasurably in its responsiveness. The class' problems had become the individual's problems, and no longer was the class content to push the burden off onto the shoulders of its officers. Such men as Arthur Anderson, David Gerry, and Gerry DeNapoli were invaluable in guiding the group toward devoting at least a lick and a promise to some of the traditional functions. And as the senior year rolled to a close, the class further evidenced its sense of responsibility by electing its own class marshals—in the persons of David Gerry, Laurence Uhland, and Russell Kennefick—becoming thereby the first class to take advantage of the new University ruling which granted this privilege of election to the class rather than to the faculty.

Yes, the Class of 1941 did have a busy college career, and there is no question that its members gained much width of shoulder and of mind in a short five years. Of course there were many factors, other than those mentioned, which contributed to the maturation process. These were the valuable little items which cannot be found listed in any yearbook or school catalogue. Watching the platform manner of some witty instructor, observing the growth of academic interest in certain classmates who were originally the most aimless of the aimless, engaging in "bull" sessions over Coca Colas at the Husky Hut, getting to know all kinds of fellows from all kinds of circumstances, learning to be self-entertaining due to the limitations of a rigorous budget—all these and more were contributing factors.

The story of a college class' career is not a history in any sense of the word. A history tells a complete story from beginning to end, and the story of five years in the life of an academic group is neither the complete saga of the group nor of its school. Time will write individual histories for each member of the Class of 1941, and it will also write the great story of a rapidly growing university.

People everywhere constantly seek recognition of their worthiness. All want social approval, and some must satisfy a natural yen for leadership. It is the latter who are most likely to seek recognition through participation in student activities in college. The most successful among them combine pleasing personalities with superior intellects, special talents, or perhaps just boundless energies.

The possession of any of these qualities, however, is not enough if one really wants to get ahead. There must be also an association with others who can contribute to one's experiences and ideas to the end that there is developed an ability to get along with other people—a rare combination of tact, tolerance, patience, and self-effacing modesty, blended with a spirit of fair play and sincerity.

Student activities provide a proving ground for the college student to develop this cooperative attitude so essential to success today. He learns to sense in himself and his associates those personal inadequacies which make for the gradations of success both in college and later life. Most important of all, he carries with him into the professional world the greatest lesson which undergraduate versatility teaches: that a man of widespread interests can bring to each of those interests a zealous and a capable mind. No graduating senior who has learned this lesson can ever be narrowed by the demands of his vocation. He will be a broader man, and in pursuing many aims he will pursue each aim better.

The Senate is the honor society of the College of Engineering of Northeastern University. Election to this society is based primarily upon scholastic achievement and character, with personality and participation in extra-curricular activities having a supporting but secondary part in the consideration for candidacy. Consequently, its members regard their election to the society as the highest honor that could be bestowed upon them.

The Senate is the oldest of the honorary societies at Northeastern, having been established in 1921 under the leadership of the late Professor George F. Ashley. Since that time, it has been self-perpetuating, honoring approximately fifteen students in each graduating class with membership.

Its outstanding objective is to foster and promote high scholarship and to further intellectual interests among the engineering students at Northeastern. This objective is carried out by means of periodic meetings of a professional and social nature during the year, and the awarding of an annual scholarship to the highest ranking student of each Freshman Class.

The Sigma Society is the honor society of the College of Business Administration. Candidates who have met the high scholastic requirements laid down by the constitution of the society are accepted into membership by vote of the current undergraduate members. Highest honors in the College of Business Administration are conferred by election to this society.

The Sigma Society was founded in 1925 by Dean Turner F. Garner, the Dean of the College of Business Administration. Originally known as Sigma Delta Epsilon, the society has adopted the more common name. Each year about ten students in each graduating class are honored with membership.

Its function is to encourage and reward scholastic attainment among the students of business administration at the University. A feature of this objective is the granting of a scholarship each year to the highest ranking business administration student of the Freshman Class.

The Academy is the honor society of the College of Liberal Arts. In accordance with the principles under which it was founded, election to this society is based upon standards of outstanding scholarship and character. Election to the Academy is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon an undergraduate of the College of Liberal Arts.

The Academy was founded in 1937 by a small group of the College, men vitally interested in the problem of giving a suitable reward to outstanding men. Its membership has not grown to large proportions due to the comparative recency of the founding of the College of Liberal Arts. As the rapid growth of the College continues there will be a gradual increase in membership, while its constitutional standards shall remain intact.

The purpose of the Academy is to encourage and promote scholastic attainment and activities among students of the College. This fundamental objective is partially attained by periodic meetings held throughout the year and by the awarding of an annual scholarship to the highest ranking freshman in the College of Liberal Arts.

STUDENT UNION

DEBATING SOCIETY

The Northeastern Debating Society, formed to foster an interest in argumentation, and to develop an intellectual consideration of issues of current interest, as well as to sponsor intercollegiate competition in the field of debating, is open to all students of the Day Division.

The society this year has concentrated its efforts, as is customary, upon the National Intercollegiate Debate topic "Resolved: That the Nations of the Western Hemisphere Should Form a Permanent Union."

In addition to the usual number of inter-club debates, this season saw the beginning of a promising rivalry with the Evening Division of the University. This rivalry grew out of the enthusiasm aroused by what was intended to be a single debate before the assembly of the Evening Division students.

Since its inception in 1936, Mr. Franklin Norvish of the English Department has been the adviser to the Society. This year's officers have been: Samuel J. D'Agata, '41BA, President; Edward F. Preston, '44LA, Vice-President; Hugo R. Pruter, '44LA, Secretary.

The society brought its season to a formal close with an annual banquet, which was attended by members of the faculty, an outside speaker, and guests.

RADIO "WIKBM"

Calling CQ! Calling CQ! — . — . — — — . — . — — — This call could have been heard at almost any time this year coming over the air waves from the spacious quarters of the Penthouse Radio Station WIKBM of Northeastern.

Under the guidance of faculty adviser Dr. Carl F. Muckenhoupt, the club has become recognized by leading amateur operators as one of the foremost amateur stations of New England.

During open house this club has always been a popular exhibit and the broadcasts offer much amusement to the visiting guests.

One of the interesting contacts made by the station was a discussion with an alumnus from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Leroy C. Tyack, operator of station W5BAT.

The officers for the year are: Presidents, Ernest M. Fallows, '44 and Lewis K. Scott, Jr., '43; Secretary-Treasurer, Philip Yaffee, '42 and Louis H. Schall, '42.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

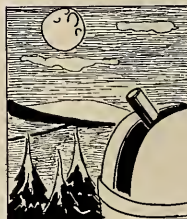

The principal activity of Astronomy Club members centers around getting acquainted with the stars. When weather conditions permit, study and observation is carried on out on top of Richards Hall. (There is an observation platform near the penthouse.)

The club is concerned with other sciences as well as astronomy, because of the relation of geology, chemistry, engineering, and physics, to a study of the stars.

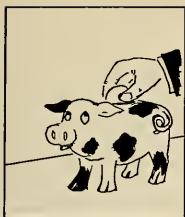

Telescope building and lens grinding are carried on by interested members in the Astronomy Lab.

New York's Hayden Planetarium is among the places visited by the club annually.

President Joseph Nordstrom, '41E; Vice-President Murton Sutherland, '45BA; Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd S. Lawrence, '41E; Technician Hurire Melkonian, '41E; Assistant Treasurer John Anderson, '45BA; Assistant Secretary Joseph Annunziata, '45BA; and Faculty Adviser Professor C. David Johnson.

BANKING AND FINANCE CLUB

How to make an Easy Million! This was the goal set by the Banking and Finance Club for the year 1940-41.

The officers elected to bear the responsibilities of executing their respective duties for both Divisions A and B are: Presidents, Sidney L. Feinberg, '41, and Gordon H. Brown, '42; Vice-Presidents, Edward Sprowl, '42 and Saul Crossbard, '42; Secretaries, Lincoln W. Morrison, '41 and W. W. Robinson, '42.

The club obtained a practical insight into the fields of investment and banking policy by securing for their evening meetings several good speakers. The first speaker was Mr. Horace Danforth, Public Relations official of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, who explained the operation of the Public Relations Department of his bank. The second speaker of the year was Dr. Hermann F. Arendtz, Economist for the United Business Service, who reviewed "The Outlook of 1941 Inflation." The last speaker was Mr. Ralph Emery, of Gilmore Rothery Company, who spoke on "Investment Policies of Insurance Companies."

After a year's study, analysis, and intricate financial maneuvers in the stock market, the group was sadly disillusioned, for the profits of the year were a mere $300,000—and this on paper.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Drama at Northeastern University received added impetus this year from a new personality, Dr. Pinard, faculty advisor. The gigantic production "When Aloes Bloom," a four act play, written and directed by Dr. Pinard, was an adventure in the more profound. The story is of the conflict between old, bucolic South African culture and the modern, industrial English culture, entwined about a drama of love.

"Hollister Hall" and "It's Murder," other productions of the Dramatic Society this year, are shorter and on the light side.

SOARING SOCIETY

This past year saw the birth of an unique organization at our University. This new society was formed on October 22, 1940, during the noon period under the inspiration of Mr. C. H. Walowicz, the society advisor. A primary glider with the necessary accessories was purchased and is being reconditioned by the members.

Glider and soaring is a sport in which the society wishes to represent the University in intercollegiate meets that are held by other college groups.

Ground classes and flight training classes will be carried on to train members to handle the primary ship on the wing.

Eventually the club hopes to possess a secondary or "utility glider" and an efficient sailplane.

The executives are as follows: President, Joseph Yuryan, '42; Vice-President, Harry Rubin, '41; Secretary-Treasurer, Carl I. Haron, '43; Donald Ashton, '44, and William Cornell, '44, are Business Administration representatives and members of the board of directors.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The international situation has provided an abundance of material for conjecture and analysis, and has kept the club busy with new developments. The swiftness of recent events this year provided the club with one of the most interesting and valuable programs at the University.

Lively noontime discussions were a regular feature of the club's program this year. The members made worthwhile progress in their ability to interpret political activities and in their manner of presenting oral and written material to each other.

At the New England Association of International Relations Clubs Conference at Brown University this year, two Northeastern delegates took part at each of the four round-table discussions.

The Faculty Adviser is Professor Hamilton. The officers of the Division A Council are: Thomas McDonald, Carl B. Johnson, Thomas M. McAuley. The Division B Council consists of William R. Hampton, Harry B. Hatch, and Robert E. Hogan.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

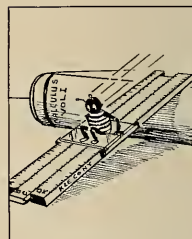

Mathematics, though dull material to most of us, provides fascinating food for thought to a gifted minority.

The 1940-1941 season of the Math Club is the tenth year of the Club's existence. It enjoys the distinction of being one of the oldest non-professional societies at the University.

Five meetings of the group took place at the University under the advisanship of Professor Elmer E. Haskins. Three of the meetings were of a general nature and were student conducted. The remaining two, however, consisted of discussions given by faculty professors of the University in the Math Department.

The annual meeting of the Boston Mathematics Club Association was held at Boston College with representatives from the various member clubs attending. J. P. Cochrane of the local club was one of the speakers of the evening.

The president of the club was Ebbie Landsman and the secretary-treasurer was Herbert Hirshman.

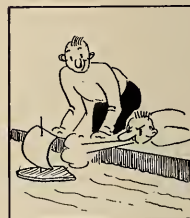

YACHTING

The tars of Northeastern have banded together and launched their newly formed club on the rough and swirling waters of Intercollegiate Competition. In May, 1940, after showing the merits of the little known Northeastern Yacht Club in non-member competition, the club was admitted to the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association.

The local group has competed in a number of regattas, including the Boston Dinghy Cup and the Morse Trophy. This year it expects to add the McMillan Cup regatta to its list of events.

An incentive to the members is given by the construction of the Community Boathouse on the Charles River Esplanade. It is expected that the activities of the club will be greatly enlarged with the addition of these facilities.

The new officers of the club, inducted at the annual dinner, are as follows: Commodore, F. Thayer Richardson, '44; Vice-Commodore, George Engle, '44; Secretary-Treasurer, Arthur Dion, '45; Assistant Secretary, John O'Toole, '44; Executive Committee, Lewis Bacon, '44, William Cornell, '44, John Kelley, '45, and Richard Robie, '43.

The ever popular and ancient game of Chess is being played more and more every year at Northeastern. Daily battles are fought, and determined indeed are the players.

"Want a game, son? Set them up and I don't care what color I get so long as it's white." This inquiry could have been heard any noon, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, during the past year at the meetings of the Northeastern Chess Club, coming from Professor Joseph A. Coolidge, the club's advisor.

The standing offer of a free meal to anyone who can beat him two games in succession has finally been won by the president of the Chess Club, Mark Sigismund, '41. Many a player has tried to duplicate this feat and failed.

The duties of the Secretary and Treasurer were handled this year by Norman S. Silsby, '42.

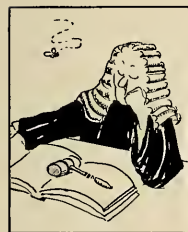

GERMAN LANGUAGE CLUB

As history records recent changes that have come about swiftly on the surface of the earth, an understanding of the German tongue will be of value in the interpretation of modern history, and the coming events that soon will be added to the annals of history.

The aspects of everyday life and culture of the German people offer a subject of variety and color to the club members.

Division A, President Howard P. Munday, Secretary Anthony J. Damplo, Division B, President Andrew D. Frazier, Secretary Henry O. Rose. Faculty Adviser Professor Barnason.

LAW AND ACCOUNTING CLUB

Discussion meetings pertaining to some phases of law and accounting practices, with special emphasis on problems which might be faced by the young accountant, are the main interests of the Law and Accounting Club.

The meetings this year were concerned with the subjects of law, accounting, and the life insurance problems of young men of moderate means. The topics covered a wide scope and proved interesting to accounting majors and other student groups.

CAMERA CLUB

The facilities of the Camera Club are expanding rapidly this year under the guidance of Professor Meserve.

New equipment acquired this year includes printing and developing facilities, and an Elwood enlarger. The quarters have been shifted from the Drawing Department's darkroom, to a larger darkroom in Room 446 in Richards Hall.

The Camera Club has sponsored two contests and picture displays this year, and a third is in progress at present.

Activities include all types of instruction in photographic technique and developing.

President Thomas J. Maloney, Jr., Vice-President Robert G. Porter, Secretary Robert Kalin, Treasurer David R. Wood, Program Committee Chairman James D. Brown, Faculty Adviser Prof. George M. Meserve.

The Cauldron Board's Purpose

In living our varied, egotistical lives—in bearing up under our private pleasures and pains—we are essentially individuals. Each of us is quite apart from the other.

Perhaps that is why years spent in college are so prized by us. Sharing the experiences and ambitions of several years with classmates seems to wear away some of the shell of aloofness, even as it brings out the high polish of good-fellowship and sociability. And we are grateful of the chance to live in the lives of others, and have them live in us.

Of course, this period of companionship is limited. Commencement Day is inevitable, and the greater part of the pleasant association is ended. It is not entirely gone, however, for the memories of that association live a long time with us.

To help in creating those memories, to help in perpetuating the glow of friendliness—that is the function of a yearbook. At least, that is what the Cauldron Board of 1941 saw as its function. However idealistic that point of view may seem, it made the Board's year of work on this book a pleasant task.

The Cauldron Board's Acknowledgments

For the uncounted number of tasks and responsibilities which he shouldered in the compiling of this volume, our heartfelt thanks to Professor Everett C. Marston. Already he is cheerfully at work with the 1942 yearbook staff. May the burden of that book rest more lightly upon his shoulders than did the burden of this one.

Our thanks, also, to the ladies and gentlemen of the Activities Department, and to any number of kind people among the University's faculty and secretarial staff.

To the Messrs. Waid, and Miss Dempsey, of the Waid Studios, our gratitude and good wishes.

A special vote of thanks to the talented Thomas McMahon, Class of 1940, for his artistic contributions. A word of praise to Milton Feinberg and Richard Akeroyd for their photographic work.

Lastly, we speak in acknowledgement of the manner in which Mr. Russell C. Knight of the Stohbs Press afforded to us the full use of the wealth of experience and ability which he possesses. Our thanks for his personal interest.

A stride forward in the department of Civil Engineering was made last year with the formation of the new student organization, the Northeastern University Civil Engineering Society. Membership in the society embraces both the local Boston Society of Civil Engineers and the national American Society of Civil Engineers.

This chapter was formally inducted as an active student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers at a banquet held at Northeastern in March of 1940 which was attended by delegates from seven neighboring colleges.

Activities include meetings to which local practising engineers and other prominent men bring their knowledge and experiences to the students, and presentation of papers by the members themselves on some phase of their co-operative work.

Beginning in 1939 the student chapter has sent delegates to the annual New England Conference of Student Chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers, at which activities are compared, papers are presented, and the engineering students are brought together by their mutual interest. This year's conference was held at Brown University in April.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a professional society organized to bring members together for discussion and observation of professional objectives. These many objectives are integral parts of mechanical engineering, both theoretical and practical. Founded in 1880, the organization now has a membership of 19,300. Its many benefits, such as Student Branch support, student loan funds, cash prizes for papers, and use of the Engineering Societies Library, are open to all members of the Student Branches. The type of work which has been done in the past, and is still being done, by the A.S.M.E. is best exemplified in the research and standardization projects such as the A.S.M.E. Boiler Construction Code. Its publications, which members receive regularly, are the "Transactions", "Mechanical Engineering", the "Mechanical Catalog", "Society Records", and "Membership List."

Research is the lifeblood of science. The Northeastern chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in recognizing this fact encourages members of the organization to do original work in the field of electrical engineering. Papers on this type of work are presented at weekly meetings. The best paper selected from those presented during the year is then eligible to compete with papers from other colleges in New England and New York state for a regional prize.

Through affiliation with their student chapter men of Northeastern come to realize early in their college careers that they belong to a large body of men whose aim it is to improve and develop the science of electrical engineering. Membership entitles the men to benefit from employment and library service, to hear lectures by outstanding men in the profession, and to participate in plant inspection trips.

Meetings of the chapter are planned by an executive committee composed of the chapter officers and two men from each division of each class.

The Student Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers has now completed four successful years as a Northeastern organization. Each year there has been a marked increase in membership. Membership is open to all Chemical Engineering upperclassmen while Liberal Arts students may become associate members.

Meetings are held at monthly intervals during the school year. The speakers at each meeting are guests from some particular industrial concern and cover a wide range of topics. The most popular event of the year is the annual banquet at which the officers for the coming year are announced. The speaker at the annual banquet usually is from a non-chemical field. Also, at the banquet, an award of a pin and a certificate of merit is given by the parent society to the chemical engineering student with the highest scholastic average during his first two years of school.

The business of the society is carried on at council meetings. The council consists of the officers of the society and a Division A and Division B representative from each class.

At the annual Open House of Northeastern, the members of the society have charge of the exhibits and experiments shown in the Chemical Engineering Laboratory.

The Northeastern chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management in the College of Engineering is the professional society serving the interests of students studying Industrial Engineering. Organized for the purpose of advancing the theory of management, the society is chiefly interested in those problems dealing with production and administration in industry.

Specific activities of the student branch of the S.A.M. include monthly meetings, round-table conferences on such subjects as time and motion study, personnel, production control, and job evaluation. Added features are the student chapter conferences and the R. I. Rees annual essay contest in which a prize of $50.00 is awarded for the best paper on some management subject.

The Northeastern University student chapter of the society for the Advancement of Management organized in the College of Business Administration exists to fill a definite need in dealing with management as it concerns the non-technical business man.

The three-fold purpose in organizing this chapter is briefly as follows:

1. To provide Business Administration students with a branch of a national society in a field where there is no such organization at present.
2. To extend to Business Administration students the privilege of attending as student members the regular meeting of the Boston Chapter of S.A.M.
3. To establish in the College of Business Administration a branch of the business professional society most frequently found in other colleges of business administration.

For a number of years the Liberal Arts chemistry majors at Northeastern were without a professional society.

This defect was remedied in the fall of 1939, when a professional society was formed especially for this group. Originally aimed at promoting the technical and social interests of L.A. chemistry majors, it achieved broader aims this year when it became affiliated with the American Chemical Society.

The periodic meetings of the society give its members an opportunity to hear problems in pure chemistry discussed by guest speakers.

Early in the 15th century, Pietro Vergerio, an Italian Humanist of the Renaissance period, wrote: "But where an active frame is conjoined to a vigorous intellect, a thorough education will aim in the efficient training of both—the Reason that it may wisely control, the Body that it may properly obey." This author and many others throughout the succeeding centuries recognized the importance of "a sound mind in a sound body."

Physical education today realizes that the development of sound physical structure is by no means the sole purpose of the program. The many thousands of annual contests on the playgrounds and the athletic fields of the nation teach the principles of sportsmanship, self-control, the ability to profit from defeat or failure, and other important character traits of the participants.

As a man turns from the classroom to his life's work, he is prone to forget that physical activity is important through all his lifetime. He often thinks of time spent in such recreation as a waste of valuable hours. He fails to recognize that a run-down body may cause a much greater loss in productive work through failing to perform with efficiency.

When a man has completed his formal education, he has usually lost the opportunity to engage in "team" sports. However, every community offers suitable substitutes for these sports. Equipment and facilities are available for engaging in sports which require only one or a few participants. The wise man takes consistent advantage of these facilities, for every minute spent in using them pays large dividends in improved mental outlook and physical well-being.

FOOTBALL

By SIMON NATHENSON

Still smarting over the dismal record of their 1939 season, from which they failed to salvage one victory, Northeastern's warriors of the grid-iron sailed into the 1940 campaign fighting mad and determined to massacre the jinx which had dogged their footsteps through seven straight games.

This fall the schedule was tough; the Huskies went out to do battle eight times and tasted victory only twice, but the records clearly point out that they deserved a better fate. Despite poor blocking and erratic kicking (they failed to convert a single point after touchdown), the Red and Black backs reeled off more yardage than their foes, and the linesmen kept any opponent from scoring more than twelve points.

Looking over the material at hand at the beginning of the season, Coach Jimmy Dunn was inclined to be optimistic, in spite of the fact that he had lost several lettermen. Ends Connie Sullivan, Carl Johnson and "Ducky" Holmes were gone, but Ernie Colantonio was back, and there were four sophomores who gave promise of attaining stardom: speed king Ed MacFarland, defensive standout Jim Reilly, dependable Onni Waltonen, and smooth-working Ronnie McKinnon.

Captain Dean Williams was a fixture at right tackle, displaying an explosive charge which moved enemy linesmen back a couple of feet. Towering Jim Jefferson was available as a replacement for the Husky leader. The other tackle post was no problem, with Art Handler and Ed Jensen fighting their hearts out for a starting position.

Guards Joe Howlett and Gerry DeNapoli had moved on, but experienced Charlie Abend proved he could handle left guard, and Dunn's eyes gleamed as they rested on a rangy blond sophomore named Len Erickson, who could sift through an opposing line like a knife cutting through cheese.

At center, husky sophomore Dick Grey turned out to be a sterling defensive player, worthy to carry on from where Art Anderson had left off, but the replacements were weak.

Backs Bob Gurney, Alex Struzziero, Ken Harding, Ray Yetten and Joe Beaton had completed their three years of varsity play, but there was a spirited group of sophomores ready and eager to step into their shoes. Coach Dunn lost no time in forming two regular backfields, each to be used as a unit. The first had Phil Sheridan at blocking back, hip-sliding Ed Barry at wingback, powerhouse Joe Dias at tailback, and veteran Ronnie Tubbs at the plunging post. The other unit had Gunnar Myrbeck blocking for shifty Franny Murray at wingback, promising passer Jim Shea at tailback, and hard-driving Ed Sakovitz at fullback.

So the personnel situation wasn't bad as Coach Dunn and his squad set out to meet the Rhode Island State Rams at Kingston, R. I., on September 21. In the previous campaign, the boys from Little Rhody had edged the Huskies, 7 to 6, the first time they had ever turned that particular trick.

The Red and Black warriors wanted desperately to resume their winning ways against Frank Keaney's lads and incidentally break their long losing streak, but it was not to be. Paced by the brilliant, shifty running of Louis "Duke" Abbruzzi and the accurate, zooming place-kicking of the 240 pound quarterback, Warner Keaney, son of the coach, the Blue and Gray clad men waltzed off with a 10 to 0 victory.

Bright spots of the game, from a Northeastern standpoint, were the tricky open-field running of Ed Barry, the powerful line-bucking of Ed Sakovitz, and the consistent punting of Ronnie Tubbs. But the Huskies were not after bright spots; they were hungry for wins, and the following Saturday saw them roaring down to Burlington, Vt., to face a snarling pack of Catamounts from the University of Vermont for the first time in the history of the two schools.

The game turned out to be a grim contest between two fast, steady lines which consistently turned back offensive drives by their opponents. It was apparent that the contest would be lost or won on the breaks. The break came in the opening minutes of the fourth period when lanky Dick Salmon, substitute Vermont end, blocked a Tubbs punt on the N. U. nine yard line and fell on the ball over the goal for the only touchdown of the game. Captain Frankie Taylor converted to give the Catamounts a 7 to 0 win.

Late in the third period, the Catamounts started a march, charging the Huskies off their feet, driving them back to their own goal line. They finally lost the ball on downs, but the N. U. boys were deep in their own territory, in perfect position for the blocked kick, which followed shortly.

Two straight defeats were discouraging, to say the least, but the boys knew that breaks had played a major role in both games and felt confident that their best brand of football was winning football. They entered their next battle, against the Amincos of American International College, still brimming with fight and spirit. It was the first home game of the season, and they wanted to show the home folks what they could do.

They were really impressive. The Amincos were unmistakably outclassed. The Huskies rolled up twelve first downs against their foes' none and amassed a net yardage of 181 yards while the Amincos were plunging their hearts out for exactly nine net yards. In fact, at the end of the first half, they had gained nothing and had instead lost five yards for their efforts.

But Old Man Jinx, who had been grinning sardonically at the Husky attempts for so many games, burst out in a gale of malicious laughter, and when the smoke had cleared from Huntington Field, American International, much to its own bewilderment, walked off the field with a 12 to 0 victory. It was the first time in history that the Amincos had beaten the Huskies.

Jolting Joe Dias personally took charge of the next game, at Springfield College, and led the Huskies to their first win in two seasons of football. Playing at Pratt Field, Springfield, the Northeastern men completely outclassed the Gymnasts, and scores in the first and third periods by Dias clinched the win, 12 to 7.

It was evident from the opening Springfield kickoff that the Huskies were red hot on the victory trail. Shifty Ed Barry took the kick and twisted and spun his way back to the N. U. 47 before being dropped. Tubbs, Dias, and Barry powered the ball down to the enemy 17, but here the attack stalled for the moment. Springfield took three desperate lunges into the impregnable N. U. line, but made no headway and punted out to their own 44. Tubbs and Dias ploughed through for three successive first downs and then Joe cleverly tricked an end and swept across the goal from the 8 yard line. Barry's attempted conversion failed.

That missed point looked mighty big when, late in the first half, Springfield recovered an N. U. fumble deep in Red and Black territory, tacked a successful forward pass and a one yard line plunge together for a touchdown, and neatly booted the extra point to make the score read Springfield 7, Northeastern 6 at the end of the half.

In the third period, however, the Huskies turned on the power. Dias and Tubbs brought the ball down to the enemy 2 and Dias went over easily to make the final score 12 to 7 in favor of Northeastern.

Elated over their first victory and inspired by a monster football rally the night before, the Huskies set out to topple strong Bates in their next encounter. The third quarter turned out to be the N. U. luck charm in this game, and Coach Dunn's charges scored all their points in this period to humble the Bobcats to the tune of 12 to 3.

Mister Jinx came back from his two-weeks vacation the following Saturday and saw to it that the Huskies dropped a heartbreaker to a definitely inferior squad from Upsala College by one lonesome little point, 7 to 6. The ironical part about it was that the deciding point was booted by little Jimmy Robinson, 155 pound sophomore, who had never before place-kicked in actual combat. And he did it only 48 seconds before the close of the first half.

The Vikings scored in the second period on a pass from Jim Kee to Tony Mercogliano and dominated the play in the second half to salt away the victory.

The Huskies vengefully bared their fangs in their home finale of the season against Tufts the following Saturday, but the Jumbos proved to be too tough and left Huntington Field with a 12 to 2 win over the home team.

The Brown and Blue drew first blood in the second period, when a tricky reverse sent West around the N. U. right end to score standing up from the 17 yard line. Harrison scored the second touchdown on a double reverse from the Husky 44.

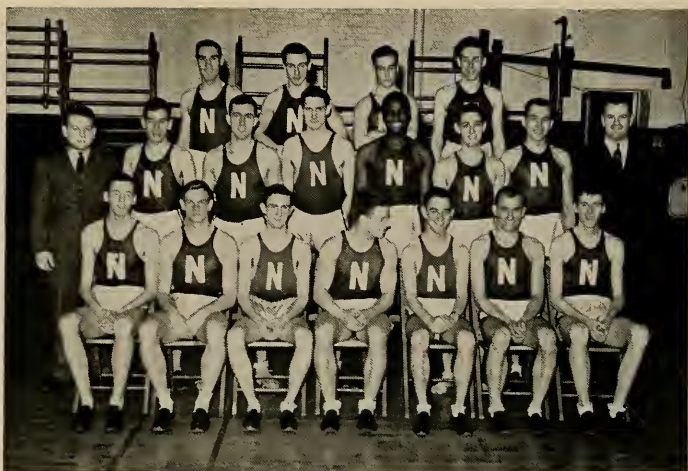

The Red and Black managed to crash into the scoring column in the final canto when Harrison tried to kick out from behind his own goal, received a poor pass from center, and was tackled behind the line by Al Olsen, substitute Northeastern guard.

Seeking to break their two-game losing streak and incidentally to avenge last year's 36-7 setback, the Huskies finished their season with a jaunt up to St. Anselm's, where they outplayed the Saints but failed to capitalize on their scoring chances, and lost by a score of 12 to 0.

All the scoring came in the first half, with captain Ed Boule pitching a seven yard pass for the first counter and plunging five yards for the second.

A flash of hope came for the Huskies in the second period when Ronnie Tubbs, playing his last intercollegiate game, intercepted a Boule aerial shot on his 23. On the next play, Joe Dias smashed off tackle, came up with some spectacular broken-field running, reversed his field, and skirted the sideline for 72 beautiful yards until he was knocked out of bounds on the Saints' 4 by Ed Surrette. A Northeastern fumble and St. Anselm recovery promptly nullified the Huskies' scoring chance.

So they lost the finale, in spite of the fact that they outrushed the Hawks 229 yards to 112, made 13 first downs to their opponents' ten, and tossed 28 passes for a gain of 137 yards. Old Man Jinx must have laughed himself sick.

TRACK

By BILL ZIEGLER

The Red and Black boasts only one undefeated athletic team for the '40-'41 season and it is not at all surprising that this team was coached by the dynamic Coach Gerry Tatton. The record-making team was of course the track unit. Northeastern's track teams are usually better than average, but this year the team was worthy of national recognition, so it took it. The result was that Gerry Tatton was rewarded for his twenty-four hour a day coaching stint by a well-balanced and star-studded squad of Mercuries, the best track team in Northeastern's sports history.

Four dual meet Victories, an I. C. 4A two-mile championship, an N. E. A. A. U. 1,000-yard crown, and a Prout Games two-mile relay winner were the spoils of the indoor track warfare that the N. U. spike-wearers stalked off with this year.

Mike Prohodsky, unassuming Middler, brought Northeastern its first I. C. 4A. championship when he roared out of third place to win the two-mile run going away against the best collegiate two-milers in the country at the Madison Square Garden on March 5. His time of 9 minutes and 37.3 seconds, the fastest he has ever run, establishes a new Northeastern all-time two-mile record. Gerry Tatton always believed in running men above and below their distances to get them in the best of condition and his theory was adequately proved by the plodding Prohodsky. Gerry had Mike run all the distances from the 1,000 to the three-mile and the system bore fruit in a big way. Mike has had endurance from cross-country running for over a year but the constant running of the 1,000 in dual meets, and running a leg on the two-mile relay team, gave Mike the speed that he has needed to develop a closing sprint for distance running.

The Carroll twins, Bill and Bob, ganged up on everyone and anyone to give the Husky runners plenty of power in the middle distances. It's bad enough when one six footer stays with you stride for stride at a hot pace, but when the "stretch" boys start running a competitor into the ground, he is apt to have a nervous breakdown; after passing one Carroll he sees another of the same go whizzing by, fresh as a daisy, and then he is sure that he is seeing things.

The Carrolls worked this feat very neatly in N. U.'s track debut at the V. F. W. meet on January 11, with the result that Bill annexed the N. E. A. A. U. 1,000-yard crown. Brother Bob challenged the capable Don Burnham of Dartmouth throughout the race and the Big Green settled for second place after Bill Carroll came through with a last lap kick that gave him first place and a title by inches. That's what is known as the co-operative system.

The rest of the track team made its presence known in this lid-opener for Boston's track season, as it placed more men than any other competing colleges. Bob Carroll placed fourth in the 1,000-yard run, Ed Parker and Colby Kelley took third and fourth places respectively in the mile run, and Mike Prohodsky got a fourth in the three-mile run.

The Huskies opened their dual meet season by defeating the Bates Bobcats at Lewiston, Maine, on January 18 by a score of 66 to 41. Believing strongly in tradition, the Tattonites won eight events as they had done the year before when they romped over the Bates Bobcats to win the meet by almost the same score. The vest-pocket Atlas, Captain Jake Wiren, also had been reading the record books, so he repeated last year's stint and took two firsts, only this year they were in the 35-pound weight throw and 16-pound shotput, while last year he won the broad jump and weight throw.

Mike Prohodsky also sought variety. Last year he won the mile run against Bates, so this year he ran in the two-mile run and not only won but eclipsed the old meet record of 9 minutes and 57.4 with a new time of 9:56.8. This was only a beginning for Mike as his Madison Square Garden performance later testified. The only other highlight of the meet was the setting of another meet record by Dave Nickerson, ace Bobcat runner, with a 2 minute and 22.5 seconds thousand.

A week later the N. U. tracksters made it known to the public that they were going places by their showing in the Prout Games. A two-mile relay team composed of Mike Prohodsky, Bill Carroll, Ed Parker, and Bob Carroll nosed out the Yale, Holy Cross, and Boston College teams to win the event in the second fastest two-mile time of the evening, 8:00.8. Bill Carroll took the lead for Northeastern in the second leg only to have this lead lost when N. U.'s Ed Parker got off to a bad start. Bob Carroll ran a clever race and paced himself to make up about eight yards, and he had the crowd on its feet as he strode to the tape in a brilliant finish a stride ahead of Crowley of Yale.

Robert Horne, Arnold Saunders, Sam Drevitch, and John Fitzpatrick ran a fair race to cop second behind the Bates one-mile relay team and ahead of the Wesleyan baton toters. The freshman mile relay team made the night perfect for Red and Black track followers by defeating Boston College and M. I. T. in 3:39.6 but the Husky rooters left the Garden that night talking about the legs that the Carroll boys ran and with secret hopes for bigger triumphs in the B. A. A. meet.

Gerry Tatton also had ideas, as everyone realized when they read that the two-mile relay team was matched against the fastest competition in the East in the Boston Athletic Association meet on February 8. The relay teams were Fordham, Seton Hall, and Manhattan College. N. U. was in too fast company but managed to make a good showing as it finished third behind Fordham and Seton Hall in a very fast 7 minutes and 55.5 running. At that, defeating Manhattan College was no small feat and the Huskies turned in a faster clocking than they had when they defeated Yale the week before. Colby Kelley faded near the end of his leg and Northeastern was ensconced in third place when the batons were exchanged for the last leg. Except for Kelley, this was the same team that ran in the Prout meet.

The Bowdoin mile relay team defeated Northeastern and Boston University in a 3:30.7 clocking.

Fran Corcoran placed third in the dash trials behind the speedy Harold Stickel of Pitt and Robert McGlone of Holy Cross in a 5.5 seconds heat. He didn't place in the semi-final heat. Ed MacFarland failed to qualify in the hurdle event. Mel Walker cleared 6'7½" that night so Husky high jumper Joe Lavin took a shower after his three tries and then went home none the worse for the experience.

On February 22 the Husky runners journeyed to Providence and trounced the Brown Bears 47 to 25 while taking five out of eight first places. The Red and Black also set one track record and equalled another as a part of their second dual meet victory.

Ed Macfarland garnered 13 points as the Huskies toyed with Massachusetts State College on February 26. The Tattonites came out on the long end of a 53 2/3 to 27 1/3 score. Macfarland captured first places in the 35-yard dash and hurdles and was nosed out for first in the 300 by the Staters' captain, O'Connor.

Jake Wiren continued his winning ways in the shotput event and set a new cage record with a heave of 44'5½". Another new mark was established when Joe Lavin of N. U. and Wall of State both leaped 5'10¾" in the high jump event.

The Huskies swept the 600 as Colby Kelley led John Fitzpatrick and Sam Drevitch to the tape. Although this meet was not much of a contest, the interesting feature of it was that there were three events in which there was a tie for first. Two Staters tied for first in the broad jump, N. U. and State divided first place honors in the high jump, and in the 1,000-yard run Bob and Bill Carroll finished in a dead heat.

TWO-MILE RELAY TEAM

As expected, the Maine track team proved to be Northeastern's stiffest competition this year and the Huskies nosed out a victory in a keenly fought meet by the score of 64 to 53. Ed Macfarland deserves a lot of credit for his share in helping to win that meet as he had his best day of the season and scored 16 points. Ed scored firsts in the 45-yard high hurdles and 70-yard low hurdles, and seconds in the 70-yard dash and broad jump. This brought Mac's total points to approximately forty for the season and makes him the team's high scorer by an ample margin. Shades of Danny Miles!

Mac ran away from the field in the 70-yard low hurdles to set a new track, meet, and University record of 8 seconds. Dick Powers of N. U. finished behind Mac and ahead of Hadlock of Maine.

Bill Carroll further lowered his 1,000-yard record to 2m. 19.2s. to win over his brother Bob and Moody of Maine. The third University record that was lowered was the mile record and who did it? Mike, of course. He ran a 4m. 24.8s. mile to win by thirty yards over Moody of Maine. The name's Prohodosky. P as in parsley, r as in . . . oh you'll get used to that name after Mike has broken a few more records and annexed the Kontoff Cup, which he will do in time. Incidentally, Mike lowered "Hawk" Zamparelli's record of 4:29.4 which was set in 1937. The "Hawk" still hits the sporting pages for his road racing.

style but if it wasn't for the astuteness of track coach Tatton, Maine might have won that meet and spoiled a good season for the Huskies. The "190 pounds of fighting wildcat" prevented this catastrophe by scratching Prohodsky from the two-mile run and entering him in the mile event. Tatton did not say why he was doing this but he no doubt was making sure that the boys kept their record clean. It was not a lack of confidence in Mike that prompted this maneuver but foxiness developed from contact with track teams of all calibres for a period of years. By now, Gerry figures where he is sure of his points and where he can afford to gamble before the meet is run.

The Maine crowd was disappointed when Prohodsky didn't run in the two-miler against the Maine ace distance man, Dick Martinez. However, they saw a good race as Ed Parker forced Martinez to the fastest time of his life, 9m. 43.5s., in order to win. And don't forget, Mike won the mile event.

Bob Carroll won the 600 handily in 1m. 15.5s. with Ehrlenbach of Maine in the place position and John Fitzpatrick of N. U. in the show money.

Diminutive Husky captain, Jake Wiren, finished a good season and an outstanding track career at Northeastern in this meet as he scored a pair of seconds in the weight throw and the shotput. Serota defeated Jake in the weight throw and Weisman, also of Maine, won the shotput event with a toss of 42'9 $\frac{3}{4}$ ".

The meet was close all the way and with the victories of Bob and Bill Carroll in the 600 and 1,000, respectively, the Huskies forged into the lead. Thus closed an outstanding season.

BASEBALL

By ED COLT

The names and numbers of Northeastern's 1940 varsity baseball nine probably will be forgotten in the dust of posterity, but one long and everlasting memory will remain in the annals of Husky baseball history—last year's club helped Northeastern to its first New England Conference championship.

In winning their seven league tilts, the Huskies virtually captured honors in all the departments. They not only led the other four clubs in pitching, hitting and stolen bases, but they placed five men on the All-Conference team, two on the second, and one was among the honorable mentions.

Co-captains Sammy Swardlick and Alex Struzziero, Joe Beaton, Dave Gerry, and Ed Lovequist, were the seniors who played on the club which Coach Gallagher called "the greatest ball club in New England."

Swardlick was considered by many to be the fastest man in the league. Since his sophomore year, this little mite had played both the short-stop and third base posts. He completed his varsity career at the third base corner, where he held down that spot with such consistency that he was chosen on the "All's" second team. Sammy, by the way, broke some sort of precedent as far as he was concerned. For three years he was the lead-off man, but last year he was moved down about four slots.

At the start of the season, he was at his old number one post, but when he went into a batting slump he asked the coach to move him down. Sammy went on a batting spree for the remainder of the season.

Beaton was selected for honorable mention on the "All" team in both his junior and senior years. In his first two years of varsity ball, he held down the hot corner spot, but he was shifted to the second base post last year. Joe was one of the most unorthodox second basemen to come around in a long time. Instead of placing his right foot on the bag at the start of a double-play, Joe used his left foot. The fact was that he found it much easier that way than the regular method.

Co-captain Struzziero didn't break any batting records, but he smashed a jinx which had followed the Husky ball club since 1934. He broke up the first game of the Rhode Island State doubleheaded with a two-run pinch-hit single. That hit doomed the Keaneymen in the championship race. Struzzy started his varsity career at shortstop, moved onto second base, and finished his last year at right field.

Gerry and Lovequist have been in-and-outers. Gerry started last season with as fine a relief job as one could see. In the first game with Tufts, Dave went in to pitch in the sixth with the bases loaded and one gone. He put out the fire on three pitched balls. He came up with a sore arm near the close of the season and was used as a relief hurler.

Lovequist had bad luck. In both his sophomore and junior years he cavorted around the first base position. Last year, however, he was ousted by the brilliant playing of Junior Wally Urbanik. Ed was used in pinch-hit roles.

Coming back this year was the '41 captain, Sylvan Simon, the small left-handed dynamo, hailed as one of the Husky's greatest centerfielders. He was chosen on the "All's" first team; two years ago he just missed that post. Syl finished the season with a .333 average.

Next comes Wally Urbanik, who is the most improved played on the Red-Black nine. Playing his first season at first base, he was selected on the "All's" first team. He batted .314.

Sophomores Wally Sullivan, Al Pajonas, Ed Barry, and Jim Maguire, contributed greatly to last year's nine. The first three were chosen on the "All's" first club, while Maguire was on the second.

Sullivan led the club with a .345 average, while Pajonas clipped .309 but led the club in runs batted in with 16. The former played left field; Pajonas was at shortstop.

Barry was the leading league pitcher, winning all four of his mound performances. He also played the outfield. Maguire was at the backstop position, and slid into the Conference's second team. He cleared the .300 mark. Other boys aiding in the title race included Ernie Colon-tonio, pitcher and outfielder; Charlie Swift, Swardlick's understudy; Charlie Foster, the speedball king, who was at his best against Rhody; and outfielder Ed Colt.

Northeastern's varsity ball club started its bid for the league title against Maine here with a ten-two win, then went on to take Connecticut University, eight to two. Barry twirled both games, while Simon, Sullivan, and Swardlick all contributed with two hits apiece.

Then came the Rhode Island State double-header. Both were seven inning tilts. Going into the seventh inning of the first game with the Huskies behind, three to two, Struzziero, pinch-hitting for Colt, singled to centerfield, driving in the tying and winning runs. Barry skinned through with a win.

The Rams scored in the first, and the Red-Blacks came back in their half to score twice. After Colt walked, and went to second on an infield out, Pajonas singled him home. Al scored a minute later on Simon's long fly. Sullivan previously had singled to send Al to third. The visitors came back to score two on a walk and two hits. The Huskies clinched the game on Struzz's hit.

In the second game, Rhody was leading, four to two, in the seventh. Lovequist singled, Maguire followed suit, then Colt smashed a hit off the third baseman's body. With the bases loaded, Pajonas cleared the bases with a home run. Foster got credit for this one.

The Gallaghermen traveled to New Hampshire to meet the league's defending champions. The Huskies got into town too late to get any batting or fielding practise, and went into the game cold. There was no score until the third when Simon singled, Beaton walked, and Urbanik singled to score Simon. Colt bounced one off the first baseman's shins and Beaton scored.

New Hampshire scored twice, and, in the eighth, Sullivan singled, went to third on Simon's bingle, and scored on Barry's hit to center.

Going into the home stretch, the Huskies beat Connecticut University, nine to five. Sullivan pitched, and baffled the visitors with a mixture of slow curves and submarine balls. Sully helped his cause by contributing a double and home run. Pajonas pitched in with a triple and single.

The visitors scored two in the first on an error, passed ball, and four singles. The Gunners tied the score in their half when Swardlick singled through third and scored on Pajonas' long triple. Al scored on a passed ball. The Red-Blacks opened the throttle a little in the fourth when Simon and Beaton walked and singles by Swardlick and Maguire scored both men.

The Nutmeggers scored their last run in the fifth, but the Gallaghermen were hot in their half. Pajonas singled, went on to second on a fumble and scored on Sullivan's double. In the seventh, Pajonas reached first on an error and Sully chased him home with a circuit clout.

Northeastern's ball club won undisputed possession of first place when it took New Hampshire, seven to six. In both of last year's Wildcat games its coach didn't expect to see his ace pitchers slapped out of the box, but that's exactly what happened. Buck Jordan had never been beaten in collegiate competition until he faced Gallagher's gunners last year. Southpaw Al Roper was the leading pitcher in the league for the past two years, but the gunners made short shrift of him.

HOCKEY

By ED COLT

Many interesting things happened to Northeastern's varsity hockey team this season.

In the first place, it completed its season with six wins and three losses, while it copped fourth place in the New England league, winning four and losing three. In the second, third, and fourth places, it produced an ace sophomore line, lost the services of center Ed Barry, who left school, and it injected a new type of playing combat in Captain Johnny Chipman. It also gained considerably by the sudden improvement of Fred Cusick.

The Husky club was all set to step into the third place spot in the collegiate hockey league until the last game of the season when it met an undefeated Colby sextet. The Huskies lost, five to four, in overtime, although Bob Fernberg, a member of the sophomore line, did just about everything to bring about a Red-Black victory. He scored three of the four goals.

An interesting sidelight connected with this game was the fact that the overtime period was played before an empty Boston Arena. After the completion of the third period, which ended at 11:45, the spectators were forced to leave the Arena because of the Sunday law. The game was played on a Saturday night.

The sophomore line of Jackie Carder, Bill Hutchinson, and Bob Fernberg, probably will be one of the greatest lines in collegiate hockey. This combination played together in their freshman year, and Coach Gallagher decided at the start of this season to keep the line intact. This trio was by far the smoothest combination in collegiate circles. They were a far better synchronized trio than the first line, mainly because they had worked together in their freshman year.

Barry was the leading scorer on the club up to the time he left school. In the two games which he played, Harvard and M. I. T., he had scored three goals and one assist in the former, and aided the first line in ringing up a total of eight goals and seven assists in the latter game. It was no secret that he was the main cog on the club, and that he was one of Northeastern's greatest hockey players. Barry's ability as a puckster has been proven by the fact that he is now playing with the Boston Olympics.

Captain Chipman was a scoring ace before he completed his last year on the ice. In his sophomore year, he was the leading scorer on the club, and one of the six highest in the New England league. That year he was chosen on the All-New England team at the center post. Last year he played with the same consistency, but not with the same scoring punch. He was selected on All's second team at that same position. It was a different story this year, though. Chipman was the playmaker on the first line. Nobody seems to know why this came about but, after Barry left. Johnny took it upon himself to start the plays, since Cusick could be depended upon to shoot them in and Bob Saumsiegle, who was moved up to a wing post from the third line, did not have much experience in the way of being playmaker.

Cusick started his collegiate career at a defence post and last year was put on a wing position. This year, however, he reached his greatest heights as a hockey player. He was the club's leading scorer. He had the hardest shot on the team, and this was proven when he whizzed in a mile-a-minute penalty shot against Boston College.

Other veterans to go include Lou Cunningham, George Ross, and Chauncey DelGrosso. Cunningham has been a mainstay at the defence position since his sophomore year and was regarded as one of the best defencemen in collegiate hockey by the sportswriters. Cunningham was a rugged individualist in his sophomore year, dealing out bodychecks right and left. In his last two years, Lou began to play real hockey. He no longer dove three feet in the air to stop a man, but waited for his man to come within range.

Ross was an aggressive and peppy hockey player, but he never seemed to have the right spark to get on the first line. If there was a mix-up for the puck on center ice, he was there. If there was a fight against the backboards for possession of the rubber, George was there. Ross was the playmaker on the third line and was contented to pass the puck out rather than do the shooting himself.

DelGrosso was a steady man at the defence position. He didn't score one goal all year, but was back behind his blue line taking care that no one got by him.

Coming back next year will be Ronald MacKinnon, defenceman and captain of the '42 club. Ronnie was selected on the first team of the All-New England club. Then there are Herb DeMontier, another defenceman; goalies Paul Cleary and Don Hansis; wings, John Heanue, Carl Westlund, and Saumsiegle.

After the Huskies had defeated Harvard, seven to four, they played their first league game against M. I. T. There wasn't much to this game since they won, 14 to 2. Everybody on the Husky club had his chance to do a little scoring. The first line scored eight goals and seven assists, while the second line pitched in with four and three.

Saumsiegle, Ross, and Heanue contributed one and one.

The next game was against Boston College—the Huskies' nemesis. The Heightsmen were too much for the Gallaghermen, winning nine to five. The Dumond-Chaisson combination, with Ralph Powers and Bob Mee centering, were a little too much for the Huskies. Chipman, Ross, and Cusick figured in the Red-Black scoring. Ross got in a mix-up with Mee against the backboards and started a little jam. After each of the boys took healthy swipes at each other, the refs and players stepped in and stopped the little jamboree.

The Red-Black sextet bounced off this defeat into the way of a clumsy M. I. T. sextet. The Huskies won this one, nine to two, minus the services of Barry.

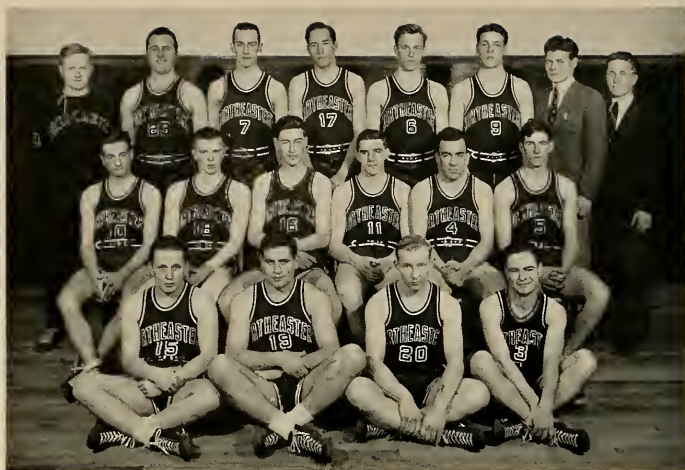

Middlebury was treated harshly by the intowners and managed to lose by a score of nine to one. Fernberg did the heavy scoring in this game, redlighting four times while assisting in three goals. Saumsiegle pitched in with two goals and his other first line members, Chipman and Cusick, also contributed to the cause. Carder was also in on a score. A fellow by the name of Jack Lundrigan ruined Hansis' chances for a shut-out when he slipped by the secondary and drew Hansis out of the net.

The Gallaghermen traveled to Durham to beat N. H. seven to four. Captain Chipman had a field day there, scoring five goals and teaming up on another. His teammate Cusick blinkered thrice while aiding in another.

Springfield was the next victim, losing nine to two. Nothing much was doing there, except that all the boys did a little scoring, and all the boys—except Springfield—had a good time. This, by the way, was the first meeting between the two clubs. Cusick, Chipman, and the second line of Carder-Fernberg-Hutchinson were all in on the scoring.

Boston College was the next opposition. The game was close until the last four minutes of play when the Heightsmen put on pressure and scored four goals, winning 11 to 5. MacKinnon and Chipman each got two. Cusick scored once in the last period.

Up to this time, the Huskies were in third place and the game with Colby, which was in fourth place, decided the final standing of both clubs. Fernberg scored three times and Cusick scored once. It looked like an easy Husky victory, especially since there were only six minutes to play, but a fellow called Johnson suddenly got red-hot and scored three goals within that time, tying the score. Then came the overtime period and a goal by Wrele.

BASKETBALL

By ED COLT

Northeastern's varsity basketball team managed to salvage two out of its sixteen games this season. The two wins were against Colby, 40 to 30, and Maine, 40 to 37. Otherwise, the season was pretty uneventful for the Dunnmen. The old injury jinx put a kink in the outfit in the middle of the season when Al Pajonas, forward, and one of the leading scorers in the league last year, went out of the lineup with a bad ankle injury. But Al managed to get back in the line-up for ten minutes against Maine and pulled one of those Frank Merriwell tricks. He went into the game with his club behind and scored 12 points to edge the Maine club.

Although out with this injury, Al managed to be the club's leading scorer with 132 points, while Mike Azzone, last year's frosh captain, finished up in second place with 130 points. An interesting comparison can be made here. Azzone scored 58 goals and Pajonas basketed 55, but Al scored 22 foul shots while Mike got only 14.

Joe Lawler, Tom Gogan, and Hal Maron, next year's captain, were right behind with 76, 56, and 53 points, respectively.

Only four men will depart from this year's club: namely, Vin Labowicz, John DeLuca, Stan Poslushney, and Elmer Smith. Labowicz was by far the most experienced of this group since he had played on that championship ball club in his frosh year with Bob Gurney, Tommy Gleason, Jim Hatch, and Bob Toucey. Vin left school, though, and returned last year. He didn't go out for the club that year but decided to make up for lost time and get down to work. This year, however, he reported at mid-season, and even though he went through a rigid training program, he never did get back into shape.

DeLuca has played since his sophomore year at the forward position. Although he did not make the first team he was in there plugging away. He reported at mid-season this year because he has been working on a co-op job.

Poslushney was a guard on this year's club. This was the first year he reported for basketball. Smith played center last year and it was thought that he would snare the center post on this year's Husky quintet. He did not live up to expectations however, and slipped back into the second team. Elmer was the tallest man on the club; he stood 6'2".

Thus, in spite of the loss of these veterans, the Dunnmen will have a veteran team returning next year. The first team will be intact. Azzone and Pajonas will be at forwards, Sullivan and Maron will be at the guard posts, and Joe Lawler will hold down his center position.

Other men returning will be Don Alston, Len Erickson, Paul Thorpe, Frank Ward, Harry Hunt, Harry Hatch, and Gordon Morse.

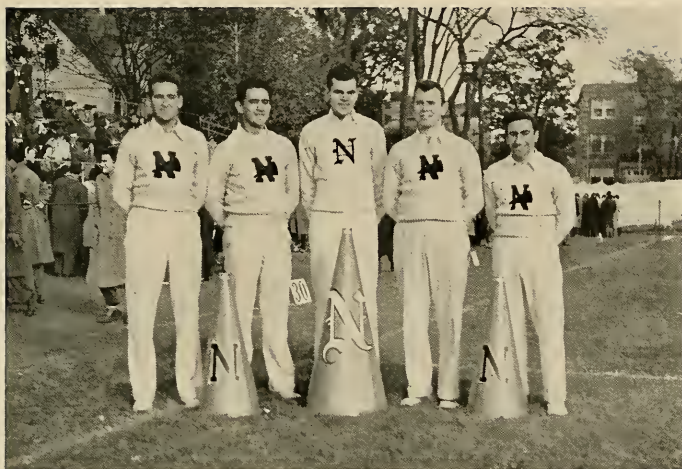

Although Morse is a sophomore he is expected to come along in his next two years. Morse, by the way, joined the frosh basketball team in a strange way. It seems that when he was a freshman he played on a team against the Pups and he put on such a good show that Coach Kopp asked him to report to the team. This was in mid-season and Morse did not have much of a chance to show his stuff. In the few games he played this year, he showed up very well. Although he still is a little green at the center position, Coach Jimmy Dunn believes he will be in there next year.

Probably the outstanding game of the season was played against Rhode Island State here. Fresh from their win in New York, the Rams were out to crumple the Husky quintet. Although they did win, 57 to 28, the Keaneymen had a pretty tough time doing it. The score at the end of the half was tied-up a 21-21, but the visitors ran away in the next half.

The Dunnmen were not out to win, but to hold the Rams to a low score. Those 57 points were the lowest ever made by a Rhode Island State club against a league team. The only team ever to follow up with this accomplishment was Tufts just one week later.

The Huskies could have kept the score lower if they had not become careless near the close of the game, when they were taking shots from all angles of the floor. And here Coach Dunn, who was yelling for the boys to hold the ball, was met by the cries of the spectators, who urged the team to shoot. The Huskies' success in keeping the score down was attributed to a long spell of defensive practice for the game.

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Offers a broad program of college subjects serving as a foundation for the understanding of modern culture, social relations, and technical achievement. Varied opportunities available for vocational specialization. Degree: Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Offers curricula in Civil, Mechanical (with Air-Conditioning and Aeronautical options), Electrical, Chemical, and Industrial Engineering. Class room study is supplemented by experiment and research in well-equipped laboratories. Degree: Bachelor of Science in the professional field of specialization.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Offers six curricula: Accounting, Banking and Finance, Marketing and Advertising, Industrial Administration, Journalism, and Public Administration. Each curriculum represents in itself a broad survey of business technique, differing from the others chiefly in emphasis. Degree: Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

SCHOOL OF LAW

Offers day and evening undergraduate programs admitting those who present a minimum of one-half of the work accepted for a bachelor's degree in an approved college or its full equivalent, each program leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Also graduate program in the evening leading to the degree of Master of Laws. Coeducational.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Offers curricula through evening classes leading to the degree of Bachelor of Business Administration with appropriate specification in Accounting, Management (with Industrial and Merchandising options), and Engineering and Business or the degree of Bachelor of Commercial Science in Law and Business Management. Preparation for C. P. A. examinations. Shorter programs arranged to meet special needs. Coeducational.

EVENING COURSES OF THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Certain courses of the College of Liberal Arts are offered during evening hours, affording concentration in Economics, English, History and Government, or Social Science. A special program preparing for admission to the School of Law is also available. The program is equivalent in hours to one-half the requirement for the A. B. or S. B. degree. Associate in Arts title conferred. Coeducational.

The Colleges of Liberal Arts, Engineering, and Business Administration offer day programs for men only and are conducted on the co-operative plan. After the freshman year students may alternate their periods of study with periods of work in the employ of business or industrial concerns at ten-week intervals. Under this plan they gain valuable experience and earn a large part of their college expenses.

In addition to the above schools the University has affiliated with it and conducts: the Lincoln Technical Institute offering, through evening classes, courses of college grade in various fields of engineering leading to the title of Associate in Engineering and the Lincoln Preparatory School, an accredited evening school preparing for college entrance and offering other standard high school programs.
